Instructions:

Before and after each teaching rotation, complete a circle of friendship graphic for each student. Think of each social skill area and each level of development. Reflect on if the student has only a concrete understanding of the social skills, has moved on to develop a sense of awareness of that social skill, or if they are competent in that social skills. Color in the corresponding area of the circle graphic. After you have completed this rating, date and save it for comparison to the rating you complete after each teaching rotation. This process will enable you to measure growth and weakness in each student allowing you to tailor your teaching, praise, and guidance to each students needs.
